

Melania

Professor of Statistics

Age: 29

"I am a visual person"

She teaches Statistics at Jacobs University to a class of 50 students and gives weekly assignments so she needs to use jGrader a lot.

She is a visiting professor on campus so only has 1 TA helping her so also grades some of the assignments on a weekly basis.

She lives near Bremen airport so quite far away from Jacobs and commutes on campus 2 times per week. She also teaches at Uni Bremen so she would like to get done as much grading as possible while she is on the train back home .

She needs to find a way to keep interaction with students from Jacobs but be efficient in grading while she is not always on campus.

She loves reading novels and watching films and also she is an active member of several data visualization teams .
